PREFACE

Dan Stiles of Shoreham, Vt., was a direct descendant of Robert Stiles, who, tradition says, came to America in Rev. Ezekiel Rogers' company, from Yorkshire, England, in the Spring of 1639, and settled in Rowley, Mass. In 1863, Dr. Henry R. Stiles of Albany, N. Y., issued a small volume concerning the descendants of Robert Stiles, and later he contributed a prefatory chapter on the origin of the family name, and an appendix on the family in England, to a larger volume, "The Stiles Family in America," by Mrs. Mary Stiles (Paul) Guild, published in 1892. Names with the prefix G in this volume were taken from Mrs. Guild's work and include the children and some grandchildren of Dan Stiles.

This book carries along the Dan Stiles line to the ninth generation of descendants of Robert of Rowley; with additional information on the children and grandchildren. The Appendix is made up of historical notes by my mother, Alice Delphine Stiles Stanton, and also includes three generations of the Johnson family, descendants of Henry Johnson of Candor, N. Y., whose son and daughter both married children of Dan Stiles.

ANCESTORS AND DESCENDANTS OF DAN STILES OF SHOREHAM, VT.

G1. ROBERT¹ STILES, was probably of Rev. Ezekiel Rogers' company from Yorkshire, England, which settled in Rowley, Mass., in the spring of 1639. In 1659 he owned a farm containing two hundred and fifty acres in Rowley village, and on October 4, 1660, he married Elizabeth, daughter of John and Anna Frye of Andover, Mass. She was born in England in 1637. According to Boxford records, Robert Stiles had a second wife also named Elizabeth, who survived him. In 1686, Robert Stiles was chosen Constable of Boxford, and died July 30, 1690. His seventh child by first wife was Robert Stiles, Jr.

G11. ROBERT² STILES, JR. (Robert¹), was born at Rowley Village, Mass., November 15, 1675, and died February 25, 1720. He married on November 10, 1699, Ruth, daughter of Josiah and Ruth (Greenslip) Bridges. In 1718, Robert Stiles purchased two hundred acres of land for the sum of one hundred pounds. His second child was Nathan Stiles.

G19. NATHAN³ STILES (Robert, Jr.², Robert¹), was born at Boxford, Mass., May 7, 1703, and died at Hebron, Conn., March 19, 1760. He married at Hebron, March 3, 1726, Ruth Carlings, and his estate was settled at Colchester, Conn. His third child was Stephen Stiles.

G32. STEPHEN⁴ STILES (Nathan³, Robert, Jr.², Robert¹), was born at Hebron, Conn., May 22, 1733, and was living in Hebron in 1791. He married on December 2, 1756, Rebecca Brown, of Middletown. In 1762, Stephen Stiles, of Hebron, was appointed to settle the estate of some party in Ashford, and on March 23, 1784, he purchased an estate in Lebanon. His first child was Stephen Stiles.

NOTE:—All numbers with the prefix "G" were taken from "The Stiles Family in America (the Massachusetts and New Hampshire Family)" by Mary Stiles (Paul) Guild.

G81. STEPHEN⁵ STILES (Stephen⁴, Nathan³, Robert, Jr.², Robert¹), was born at Hebron, Conn., November 5, 1757. He married Irena Bliss, who, after his death, became the second wife of his brother, Reuben, whom she also survived. We cannot learn where he died, one account stating that he died at Shoreham, Vt., while another says his death took place at Orwell, Vt. He was, doubtless, comparatively a young man at the time of his death. Mrs. Irena (Bliss) Stiles died at Chazy, Clinton County, N. Y., and is there buried. His second child was Dan Stiles.

G223. DAN STILES (Stephen⁵, Stephen⁴, Nathan³, Robert, Jr.², Robert¹), was born at Shoreham, Rutland County, Vt., February 23, 1779, and died at West Chazy, N. Y., January 6, 1826, and is buried there. He married on February 5, 1803, at Shoreham, Vt., Lucinda, daughter of Aaron Hickok. She was born September 12, 1786, and died August 14, 1865. After Mr. Stiles' death she married as second wife, Minot Farmer.

The following is copied from an old manuscript in the possession of Alice Stiles (No. G857):

APPENDIX

NOTES BY ALICE DELPHINE STILES (NO. G857)

LUCINDA HICKOK 1786-1865

On her mother's side, father says, grandmother Farmer's people (the Hickoks) owned a fine property, a large farm near a lake, where the city of Pittsfield, Mass., now stands. It would have made the heirs wealthy but they could not get possession, as the papers were lost. They moved to Pittsford, Vt., when grandmother was a young girl. She has often told me about wearing a petticoat and short gown at that time. She was baptized at about sixteen (after sharp words with her mother who was a strong Presbyterian) in a creek near Pittsford by old Elder Greene (quite old), a close Baptist minister, who afterwards moved to Potsdam, near Parishville, where he died a few years later.

LUCIUS STILES 1816-1904

Burlington, Vt., and Plattsburg, N. Y., are nearly opposite on Lake Champlain. From Cornwall, Vt., where father was born, there was a horse ferry, probably two or three miles wide, running across Lake Champlain to Essex, N. Y., Charlotte being farther down the lake.

Father's uncle, Reuben Stiles, was an old Revolutionary soldier and pensioner who drew about $96 a year. He married grandmother Stiles' mother, being her second husband. He was about 65 when they moved to Chazy, St. Lawrence County. He and his wife, a little woman, died and were buried in Chazy. Grandfather Stiles had one sister, Polly, who died when a young lady.

Father's twin sister had three sons, and one daughter, who died at about 15. The sons lived to grow up. Aunt Angeline also had several children, Elizabeth, Martha, and Marshall being all I know of. Father (Lucius) was born Mar. 26, 1816 (the cold summer) in Town of Cornwall, Vt., on a small farm near and in sight of Lake Champlain. The nearest town was Bridgeport, where grandmother went for shopping. They moved, soon after that, across the lake on the ice to the Town of Chazy, a mile or two from Chazy Corners and six miles from Chazy village, nine miles from Plattsburg on the line of railroad now running through from Montreal, passing near the lake through Whitehall, and near or through Ticonderoga. Before that they had lived in the Town of Shoreham, the village of Shoreham being Governor Morton's home. At one time they lived two miles from Potsdam, N. Y., in John Barton's house. He afterwards married father's twin sister, Lucia. His brother, James Barton, married another sister, Angeline. Both Bartons owned fine, large farms. Grandfather Stiles was drafted at the battle of Plattsburg and was a drummer. Father thinks he was a drummer in other battles before this. They lived in Chazy at the time of the battle of Plattsburg, and grandmother could hear the cannonading very distinctly. Grandfather was said to be a very fine drummer.

Father drove when about 18 years of age, with a load of wool from between Potsdam and Bicknellville through Parishville, Hopkinton, Sodom, Malone, Skadagway and Peru to Keeseville (4 miles from Peru) where Uncle Leonard Stiles, Uncle Sylvanus and Aunt Mary Stiles (then widow Pierce) were living together (all three married soon after). Father visited them, then drove on to McNeill's ferry on Lake Champlain, crossed on horse boat to Charlotte, then went on to Vergennes, Vt., delivered wool and drove on to Pittsford, Vt., then to Rutland, where Ansel Farmer's wife and three sons were and took them back to grandfather's farm.

Father was about 9 years old (nearly 10) when his father died, in January, 1826, also same winter grandmother's oldest son, Stephen Bliss (aged about 22), died (both died in January), and the next April (same winter), the 11th, Aunt Irena Bliss Stiles, afterwards the wife of William Burns, was born. She had one daughter, Alida. Two or three years after father went to live with the family of Jonathan Scribner, who had an ugly wife, on a new farm at Beekmantown. Her father's name was Barker (a half-breed Indian) who kept one of the hotels on the turnpike. He next lived with the family of Seneca Catch, a mile or two from Chazy village. His wife was a very nice person, her maiden name was Ruby Knapp. Mr. and Mrs. Catch were both from Vermont. He next lived with Abiram Buttles, a mile or two from Potsdam. His wife's maiden name was Betsy Sprague.

REMOVAL TO TROY, PA.

Those who came to Troy, Pa., were:

Grandfather (Minot) Farmer.
Grandmother Farmer (Lucinda Hickok)
Leonard Farmer (about 12 years old)
Lucretia Farmer
Lucius Stiles (about 20 years old)
Reuben Stiles
Rachel Stiles
Irena Stiles

They passed through the following places:

Canton, home of Silas Wright, a celebrated statesman,
in Oswegatchie township
Antwerp
Gouverneur village
Watertown, Jefferson County
Syracuse, drove through main street, saw salt works
first at Salina
Hamen, N. Y.
Cortland, N. Y.
Dryden, N. Y.
Owego, N. Y.
Athens, Pa.
Smithfield, Pa.
Springfield, Pa.
Troy, Pa.

Before leaving for Troy, grandfather Farmer's family lived in the old Wing house, just east of Potsdam, St. Lawrence County, N. Y. They left for Troy about the third week in January, 1836, with one two-horse sleigh and one one-horse sleigh. The snow was very deep and there were no cars in those days. They had all their goods with them. After a long and weary journey they arrived at Troy, Pa., on Thursday, February 18, 1836. They stopped for the rest of the winter with Uncle Dan and Aunt Lucinda Miles (she was the sister next older than father and his twin sister, Aunt Lucia), who lived above Troy in sight of the present railroad (Northern Central), fifty rods up the hill, east, and opposite Troy fair grounds and nearly opposite the old Dr. Parsons house. The house where they lived stood on a road (now vacated) on the James Lucas farm which was afterwards bought by old Dr. Parsons whom I well remember with his quaint ways from a very little child as our family doctor. He always came in an old fashioned gig. He died while I was at Mansfield at boarding school. I went when I was 18 years old, in the fall of 1865.

They stayed there for probably two or three weeks, then moved into an old house belonging to Major Long which stood in the corner just below and toward Troy village from Bert Pomeroy's present pretty farm house. Some of the old apple trees now standing were there then, and father remembers that they used the fruit from them. They lived there two years, moving in the fall of 1838 to the old Avery farm where my brother and I were born. Not much of the old farm was cleared when they went there except the large meadows on the east side of the road and below the house. The old Avery house was then more than 40 years old. The old orchard was just set out when our people moved there.
